

Thank you to those of you who ran at Billericay on Wednesday. The evening was quite mild, but there was a lot of moisture in the air. Some enjoyed the hills, some not so much! But at least there was cheap beer available when you had finished your run! Graham had planned some good courses, providing as much route choice as possible, and it is encouraging to see several different routes taken on the MapRun tracks.

Fastest round the short course was Marc Owen, retaining his unbeaten run in all the events he has entered to date. He also took the full complement of handicap points, and so has three maximum scores this season. Maintaining his lead at the top of the table was David Game.

Seb Parris was quickest round the Long course, 5 minutes ahead of nearest rival, Chris Prince. He also took the handicap win, with Roy Read in second and Chloe Fowler third. With that being Seb's third win of the series he opens up a small lead at the top of the Long course table. Chloe Fowler and Simon Fowler are joint second.

Details of the scoring can be found at this link.

Details of the all the results in the series can be found on the series homepage.

The next event of the series is in Maldon. Details on the SOS website.