

Thank you to those of you who ran at South Ockendon tonight. The weather was kind - sunny and warm, although there were a few drops of rain later in the evening. Graham had planned some good courses, taking in the new country park with views of the wind turbines, the intricate estate near the start/finish with its multitude of paths and alleys, and plenty of other open areas.

Colin Jackson was (just) fastest round the Short course, and Guy Lidbury recorded the shortest time on the Long. They both held on once handicaps were applied to take the wins. This was the seventh race of the series, so the top 6 calculation now comes into play for those who have entered every event so far.

Colin leads the way on the Short course overall table, with Alan Sibthorp in second. It is very close at the top of the Long course table, as we approach the final race. Any of the top 4 can take the series championship. Currently Chris Prince holds the lead, with Chloe Fowler, Paul Beckett and Jackie Sibthorp all battling for top spot. Guy Lidbury, currently in 6th could also get to the top of the table depending on results at that final race.

Details of the scoring can be found at this link

Details of the all the results in the series can be found on the series homepage.

The final event of the series is in Maldon. Details on the SOS website.