

Thank you all for coming along to race 9 of the winter series in Shenfield and Hutton, organised by HAVOC. We have had a few events and MapRun courses in the area, and you may have spotted some familiar controls on your way round if you have done any of those events before!

It was a little chilly on the night - bit of a shock after the warm few days previously! It also threatened to rain a few times, but mostly held dry.

We had a good start field, with 17 on the Long and 16 on the Short. Quickest were Marc Owen on the Short and Seb Parris on the Long. They also held on to their top placings once handicaps were applied.

With one race to go in the series, the Short will be won by David Game if he turns up to that last event. In case not, Marc Owen is waiting in the wings. Melanie Sirrett or Colin Jackson will take third. Similarly, in the Long, the title is Seb's if he turns up to the last event, with Chloe Fowler poised to pip him to the title if he doesn't race at Colchester. Third spot is a close run thing, with Roy Read, Lyn West and Simon Fowler all within an appearance bonus of each other.

For those of you who weren't able to make the race on the night, you can still score points in the league for running the course "Anytime". Details including the maps and instructions can be found on the series homepage.

Details of the scoring can be found at this link.

Details of the all the results in the series can be found on the series homepage.

The final event of the series is in Colchester, on 26th March. Details on the SOS website.